Helping more kids experience their worth in Christ

Our kids come from hard places. They often have not known the love of a family or the security of the next meal. They don't know the fun of just being a kid. BUT YOU CAN CHANGE THEIR STORY.

CCHO provides a safe and stable residential treatment center where abused, neglected and traumatized youth find healing, discover hope and experience unconditional love. Up to 46 children ages 6-18 live in cottages on our 165-acre Wooster campus at one time. They engage in a variety of therapeutic approaches, such as equine-assisted therapy, art, individual, group, play and trauma therapy. We always appreciate your prayers that residents would feel safe here and connect with staff—the first step in their healing.

If you have a heart for helping children find healing and fulfillment on the other side of painful trauma, we invite you to get more involved.

Work Groups

Bring a group to our residential campus in Wooster for a volunteer workday and tour to see the ministry firsthand. Share your skills and resources and directly provide for kids who are hurting.

SUMMER PROJECT IDEAS

- Build a disc golf course.
- Mulch/weed flower beds.
- Sand/stain picnic tables.

Sparks Volunteers

Help our youth explore new interests that may become a pro-social activity when they finish their residential stay and get back into their communities.

Sparks volunteers come to campus and share their area of expertise through interactive programs. Suggested topics include animals, art, music, science, sports, and more.

Connect on Social

Our social media channels are updated with the client stories, events and volunteer opportunities. If you don't already, would you please follow us? Your follow, likes and shares are a great way to tell others about all that God is doing through CCHO.
